

Café Reason But Oh Dance Theatre

Tipping Point

...Our World in Crisis...

11 & 12 January
Al Jaber Auditorium
Corpus Christi College
7.30 pm

Tickets £12: www.eventbrite.co.uk

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL ENGLAND

Tipping Point

Andrew Bell

WITH THE CLOCK TICKING for the world to take action on climate change, Café Reason's timely and provocative new work offers a creative response to the threats facing our fragile planet. Eloquent dance and eclectic live music express the vulnerability of the earth and our own responsibility for it, past and future.

TIPPING POINT weaves together surreal physical theatre, vocal improvisation, original video, bizarre costume, and found objects, to shine a slantwise, shifting light on our complex and evolving relationship with the Earth. At once beautiful and disturbing, it presents an absorbing, challenging, and moving audience experience.

Dariusz Dzials

CAFÉ REASON is an experimental performance company specialising in butoh – a radical dance form that originated in post-war Japan. Constantly innovating, the group seeks to extend the boundaries of perception and the interpretation of what it means to be human.

"Quite magical; powerful and moving; I was captivated."
Audience members

Tickets: £12 in advance through Eventbrite.
www.eventbrite.co.uk

Venue: Corpus Christi College, Merton Street, Oxford, OX1 4JF

More information

www.cafereason.com/main/tipping\_point.htm

www.facebook.com/cafereason

@CafeReason #tippingpoint
marketing@cafereason.com

Main photo: Andrew Bell • Design: Ayala Kingsley